Thousands of Arrests Fail to Check Traffic

It is a rare day in Greater New York when the fire department is not called out by the popping of still to quench a fire. The winemakers are practically unmolessted. They work quietly. The homebrewers largely avoid trouble unless they produce so much "mash" that the sewers are clogged and an investigation follows. The home-made gin producers only need a stove and

SON'S BODY LEFT ON LAWN

Strangest Homecoming is Revealed in Oklahoma

CORPSE FOUND BY FATHER

Visit of Young Man Expected; Corpse Comes

(By C. LEROY TURNER)
OKLAHOMA CITY, (United Press) — Oklahoma's strangest homecoming has gone down in the big book of "unsolved mysteries."

No accepted solution of conditions surrounding the return of the body of Riviere Horner, 24, to his boyhood home and to his parents, after an absence of two years, has been offered. In spite of this, the case has been marked "investigation closed" after the name "Riviere Horner." They did so at the request of the youth's parents.

Riviere, son of Joseph Horner, wealthy oil man here, and nephew of State Senator Glen Horner, Muskogee, was a leader of the younger set when he attended the state A. & M. College.

For the past two years, Riviere was supposed to have been in St. Joseph, Missouri. He had a bank account of several thousand dollars there at the time of his death, parents were notified.

In St. Joseph, young Horner was reported to have been associated with a man named Floyd Felts, with whom he had made frequent automobile trips to Mexico according to St. Joseph officers.

Riviere's parents were expecting a visit from their son recently when one morning about 4 o'clock a knock was heard on the door, the elder Horner says.

"We thought it was our boy come to pay us the promise visit," Horner told police.

"Tell him to come in," Horner answered.

"My God he can't—he's dead," was the reply.

THE FATHER DAZED

The father was dazed by the unexpected news. He started for the stairway to inform his wife who was ill in her room on the second floor but returned to the door to question the "death messenger."

The "messenger," whom Horner later said was Floyd Felts, was by this time in his car but yelled back as he drove away through the thick fog.

"I've been driving with Riviere's body for four days and nights without a bit of sleep. As soon as I get a bite to eat, I'll return and explain."

Before driving away the man left the dead body of Riviere on the lawn. The boy's suitcase had been thrown out beside the body.

DRINK WATER IF BACK OR KIDNEYS HURT

Begin Taking Salts if You Feel Backache or Have Bladder Weakness

Too much rich foods forms acids which excite and over work the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the system. Flush the kidneys occasionally to relieve them like you relieve the bowels, removing acids, waste and poisons, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, the stomach sour, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste, begin drinking water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine and bladder disorders disappear.

This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of women take now and then to help prevent serious kidney and bladder disorders.

By all means, drink lots of good water every day. Have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.—Adv.

MISS HARDING ON SLUMMING TOUR

President's Sister Sees New York Cabarets in Action

NEW YORK — (Associated Press)

Miss Abigail Harding, President Harding's sister, who with her sister, Mrs. Carolyn Harding Votaw, recently returned from a tour of South America, went on a slumming tour de luxe early today with a party of friends thru the white light theatrical district, picturesque Greenwich Village and the edge of the bustling Lower East Side.

After attending a Broadway show the party of fourteen in two limousines, chaperoned by secret service agents, started on their tour. The first stop was at a well known cafe in the Times Square section. They were then driven to the village where they visited several cabarets. They were then driven to the village where they visited several cabarets, remaining an hour and a half and enjoying the entertainment. Their identity was unknown to the villagers.

The Official Inn at Mulberry-st and the Saw-Dust Inn in a Kenmar-st basement were the last places visited. The cabaret at the latter place was just closing when one of the secret service agents whispered to the manager that the president's sister was present. A special program was hastily arranged.

Miss Harding enthusiastically applauded the singing of "The Rose of Maryland."

Four city detectives joined the party at the Saw-Dust Inn as an additional guard. A contemplated visit to police headquarters was abandoned owing to the lateness of the hour.

ART

In Home Furnishing

An understanding co-operation on the part of our organization, enables you to express in your homefurnishings the highest type of Art. In this regard, overstuffed furniture for the living room is of exceptional importance.

We naturally feel that your homefurnishing problems are ours; and having closely studied the problems confronting the average home furnisher during the many years we have been in business, we feel exceptionally well equipped to serve you.

The charm of a well furnished living room is not necessarily determined by the cost of the furnishings, but rather by harmonious selection, expressing quiet cordiality. The charm lies solely in the good taste used in selection, as we are ready to demonstrate, rather than in the costliness of any particular setting.

We offer our assistance in helping you to select furniture that will contribute to a great measure, to the artistic appearance of your home, any time at your leisure.

33 YEARS DIGGING TO TUT TOMB

Tedious Job of Howard Carter in Egypt Described

NO REWARD IS RECEIVED

British Excavator Called Poor as Graveyard Mouse

VALLEY OF THE KINGS,

LUXOR, Egypt—(Associated Press)

While the world has been following with unabated curiosity the wonderful archaeological discoveries in the Valley of the Kings, little thought has been given to the years of toil and research and patience given by archaeologists in these far-off ruins in order that these wonders of a vanished civilization may be made available to present generations. It is perhaps little understood that the recent unearthing of the tomb of King Tutankhamun by Howard Carter, the British excavator, represents a continuous effort of 33 years of research and excavation. Carter began digging on the site of Thebes, the ancient capital of Egypt, when he was eighteen and has never ceased his labors.

He was never rich enough to conduct his own excavations, but has invariably worked for others. Some of his most notable work was done under Theodore M. Davis of Boston, who from 1907 to 1914 discovered six royal tombs and a wealth of rare and valuable antiquities. In more recent years Carter has been associated with Lord Carnarvon, who financed the excavation work of Tutankhamun's tomb. Carter has derived no pecuniary reward from his years of research. A friend has described him as "poor as a tomb mouse." American visitors at the newly-found tomb have remarked that the now famous excavator wears the same suit of clothes, the same hat and shoes, daily, Sunday, and throughout the year.

MODERN HERMITS

Carter's devotion and labor in the cause of Egyptological science are typical of the example of all excavators, British, American, and French, in the ancient ruins of Egypt. These men may be described as modern hermits in this 5,000-year-old Valley of the Kings. They lead a one-sided and narrow existence. Cut off from all civilizing and uplifting influences, the score or more of them who comprise the foreign colonies of Luxor move within a narrow groove and seldom even come in contact with one another. Excavating is almost a religion with them.

The Valley of the Kings and the Theban Hills, 450 miles up the Nile from Cairo, are infested with wolves, jackals, wildcats, foxes, snakes, lizards, scorpions, vultures, beetles and vermin. The archaeologists live in unpretentious stone and mortar houses with nothing but the barest rough-hewn furniture and the most primitive household equipment. The house occupied by the American experts was built through the generosity of the late J. Pierpont Morgan who was moved to pity by their privations and exposure.

The natives of the valley are pathetically poor and untutored. Food is scarce and expensive. Water, where it exists at all, has to be brought from afar in hand-buckets. The nights are cold, and fuel is difficult to obtain. Many of the needs of life also are lacking. The heat of the valley is distressingly severe during the day, and the entire area is plagued with flies and pernicious insects.

The archaeologists have few social contacts. They live like recluses. The whole west bank of the Nile in the neighborhood of the ancient Thebes is a desolate, forbidding waste of mud, sand and rock. No flower or vegetable or blade of grass has reared its head above this barren terrain for 50 centuries. Only the most primitive roads exist. Houses are few and far between. In selecting this place for their eternal entombment the ancients choose with

WHY CHILDREN ARE SICK IN WINTER

CHILDREN get sick in winter because they don't get the pure fresh air and outdoor exercise they need and their blood gets out of order. If your children are the least bit run down, thin in flesh and subject to colds, build them up with Gude's Pepto-Mangan. It will give them a new supply of rich, red blood, give them strength and vigor, and help them to resist disease.

an eye to its solemnity, seclusion and silence. The only human beings that move among the sequestered ruins of what was once the most flourishing city in the world are lean and spectre-like Arabs dressed in white robes.

SULPHUR IS BEST TO CLEAR UP UGLY, BROKEN OUT SKIN

Any breaking out or skin irritation on face, neck or body is overcome quickest by applying Mentho-Sulphur, of its germ destroying properties, nothing has ever been found to take the place of this sulphur preparation that instantly brings ease from the itching, burning and irritation. Mentho-Sulphur heals eczema right up, leaving the skin clear and smooth. It seldom fails to relieve the torment or disfigurement. A little jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur may be obtained at any drug store. It is used like cold cream.—Adv.

FACE COVERED WITH PIMPLES

Very Sore. Itched and Burned. Cuticura Heals.

"My face was literally covered with pimples. They were large and very red, and sometimes festered and became very sore. They itched and burned and were very disagreeable. I used several remedies without success. I had been bothered about three years when I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment. My face began to get better in about a week, and in four weeks the pimples had disappeared. I was healed." (Signed) Miss Cora Carnin, Rt. 2, Parker, Kans.

Use Cuticura for all skin troubles. Sample Each Free by Mail. Address: "Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. H, Malden, Mass." Send every-thing. Send No. 10, Union St. N. Y. City. Cuticura Soap shaves without mug.

NOBILITY FIGURES IN COURTS

Prominent Britishers Playing Part on Divorce Stage

RUSSELL BABY CASE UP SOON

Viscount Torrington Named Co-
respondent in Another Suit

(BY CLYDE C. WILSON)

LONDON—(United Press)—“Noble” lords, equally noble ladies, numerous unofficial barons and dukes of the vaudeville and dramatic stage, along with a dash more of ordinary citizens of His Majesty the King are performing for the edification of the divorce court fans. English law recognizes but one ground for divorce, unfaithfulness.

Viscount Torrington, back in the line that began in 1715, owner of a splendid war record and recently relieved of a wife through the successful suits of Lady Torrington for a divorce, heads the list of titled alleged home wreckers.

When the prosaic sounding case of Forans versus Forans is called before the court, Viscount Torrington will be the co-respondent. The case will be defended, which means a wealth of evidence of not too wholesome character. Divorce court fans like that.

Paramount in general interest is the celebrated “Russell baby case,” due for the rehearsing in the present term. For months last summer the Russell baby was the best advertised young man in England. The husband of the mother of the child is John Hugo Russell, son of Lord Amethill. The first trial of the case ended in disrepute. Its general outline is similar to that of the Stillman case, in America. Testimony will again be offered by doctors, surgeons and blood specialists.

Because the mother gave birth to a normal child, but, on the evidence of medical authorities, had never had intimate relations with her husband or any other man, this case is a headliner with the divorce court crowds. Tickets to the court room would be worth at least $25 if it were possible to issue tickets.

Sir Edward George Chichester will be the plaintiff in a divorce action and the fact that his wife started the ball rolling by suing for restitution of conjugal rights some time ago lends value to the case from the spectators standpoint.

John Miriam Isabelle Williams, daughter of the fifth Lord of Rosedale, is asking a divorce from her husband.

Miss Madge Compton, the actress, will try to escape the bonds that tie her to her husband, George Graves. Graves is an actor.

Will Evans is another actor who will contribute to the merriment of the spectators when he tries to prevent his wife wriggling free from matrimonial success.

Barbara Hoffe, who scored a success in “The Man in Dress Clothes,” has had enough of her dramatist-husband, Monty Hoffe and will ask for a divorce.

Kellogg's Bran is ALL BRAN

—that's why it relieves constipation!

Halfway measures mean nothing to the man, woman or child whose very existence is threatened by the habitual clogging of the elimination channels. Food with only part bran can never clean and sweep the intestines in the manner as does Kellogg's Bran, cooked and branched.

And, Kellogg's Bran is as delicious in flavor as it is positive in its action. It is eaten regularly—two table-spoonfuls daily; in chronic cases, with each meal—it will permanently relieve the most aggravated case.

Your health will be greatly improved within a brief period if you will eat this delicious Kellogg cereal. How what Kellogg's Bran, cooked and branched, will do for you and for your loved ones. There is no time to be lost in getting the relief that Kellogg's Bran assures.

Kellogg's Bran is delightful as a cereal, sprinkled over any hot or cold cereal, or served in countless appetizing ways in baking and cooking. It makes the best sort of pancakes, muffins, raisin bread, macaroons, etc., you ever ate. And, each mouthful contributes to health! Kellogg recipes are printed on each package. Kellogg's Bran works for you all the time! Your physician will recommend Kellogg's Bran for constipation.

A simply complexion or an offensive breath can both be overcome by the regular use of Kellogg's Bran, which is sold by grocers everywhere.

OPEN LETTERS

To Taxicab Company Managers

GENTLEMEN: There are occasions, I'll admit, where it is necessary for motor vehicles, particularly those in public service, to make time. I'll not agree, however, that such occasions arise frequently. Therefore, if your machines go dashing about at break neck speed, there can be no general excuse for it.

Yesterday, I saw the driver of a taxicab approach the intersection of Main and High-st. at a rate inconsistent with safety. He was alone in the machine. I saw him swerve into Main-st., scattering pedestrians and splashing mud and water. I followed his course and saw him drive his machine to its station on the square. There was no good reason for his haste, I observed.

You will confer a favor by talking with your drivers on the matter of speed and careful driving.

LIMA BEANE

To Lima Builders

MY FRIENDS: Your foresight in providing desirable new homes for those of my citizens who wish to purchase permanent places of residence, and for those who will come to my city during the spring and summer as a result of increased activity in manufacturing institutions, is commendable.

I am informed that at least 600 additional places of residence will be necessary to meet the demand. Cooperation existing between the realty board and private and civic organizations of my city augurs well for prospect of success in meeting the contingency.

LIMA BEANE

To the Lima City Street Railway Co.

GENTLEMEN: Conditions arise on your cars during the rush hour each evening that no set of rules could possibly cover. Conductors must use their own judgment and if it happens to be bad, so much the worse for your concern.

I have watched various conductors handle crowds out of the square for the last several evenings. I have seen some jam their cars to the guards, but were able to keep passengers in a good frame of mind even though they suffered inconvenience. I have seen others attempt to load their cars but with little or no cooperation from the patrons. All this because of the methods employed by the conductors.

One conductor this week had his car fairly well filled, but his attitude and manner of speaking caused his passengers to go "sour" and they failed to respond to his commands to crowd up. Result was that his car was forced to pass waiting persons further along the route, because he could get no more aboard, although another man might have jammed several more in the car.

There is no place where diplomacy is of greater value than in a street car crowd. Your lines will profit in good will if all of your men learn this.

LIMA BEANE

To M. P. Colt

MY DEAR MACK: Congratulations are humbly offered by this department on your selection as president of the Allen-co Chapter of the American Red Cross, as successor to the late honored and esteemed S. S. Wheeler.

I know that the record heretofore maintained by the greatest of humanitarian organizations in my city and county is assured of continuation since you have been chosen as head of the unselfish and zealous body which is always first on the ground when succor is needed.

LIMA BEANE

To Jake Gross
To Willie Ames

BOYS: Lima sport fans have heard and read much about your scraps in other cities. The matter of supremacy is somewhat in doubt. I am trusting this will be satisfactorily settled tonight at Memorial hall. Please remember, the patrons are expecting to see both of you do your best. Your managers say you are in fine condition, so no alibis after the battle, please.

LIMA BEANE

To Manager Bingham

DEAR GENERAL: I am sharing your anxiety in the mixup that has developed in connection with the peddling of the actual work on Contract B, outfall sewers in my city as a necessary part and parcel of my proposed disposal system.

It is not so important who is to do the work as to know that it will be done and done quickly. I trust that the parley called for March 29 will clear away all impediments and that operations will soon be resumed on the job, now only one-third completed and at a standstill, due to default by a sub-contractor.

LIMA BEANE

To Clarence Saunders, President
Piggly Wiggly Stores

DEAR CLARENCE: You have my congratulations upon the manner in which you trimmed the sharks who attacked your stock and hammered it down on the exchange. Not every unfortunate who gets "squeezed" by them can turn the tables. They would have made you pay; see that they pay you.

LIMA BEANE

To President Harding

DEAR WARREN: I understand that Senators Borah, Johnson, Moses, La Follette and a few others you or some of your friends have been pleased to term radicals, are endeavoring to impress upon you that adherents of the G. O. P. in the east are not going into ecstasies over prospect of your candidacy for renomination in 1924.

As it is revealed to me, should they fail in getting you to understand you're not wanted, the next expedient will be an effort to knock you off in the preferential primary. Falling in that, a third party is to be formed, and a candidate termed progressive placed in nomination.

I trust that you will not duplicate the performance staged by former Governor Harry L. Davis.

LIMA BEANE

To City Commissioners

FRIENDS: Announcement of the fact that my board of sinking fund trustees intends to enlighten you on the question of the 19th annual report of that body Monday night will likely assure a more intimate knowledge concerning the bonded indebtedness of my city.

Facing an overdraft of nearly $60,000 is nothing pleasant to contemplate, but according to figures worked out, that is the situation you are confronting at this particular time. Just how condition of affairs can be alleviated, I leave to you, with my sympathy.

LIMA BEANE

To Ohio Legislators

DEAR SOLONS: Thru the media of a news story in my favorite family journal, I am informed that you are considering a week's rest, to begin about March 31.

If you intend to adjourn for a half fortnight, that will help some, but why not make it a sine die proposition, thus relieving the situation in a proper manner for keeps?

vexed at the posture of affairs. The chef still nursing his greave cold. And the American Bank nursing my overdraft. Desperately afoot to Oglebo's Morse machines. Bot a hundred California. And shorted as much Loco. Now, for a cell with the chiropractors, and a pipe line to a bootlegger.

On the street, spoke with M'scur Baker, the expert mail distributor. And bowed to L. H. Kibby, the one time banker at the Old National. On his annual trip to God's Country, from Golden Gate Berkeley. They all come back. For here's the old par golfer, J. Charles Linneman. Who's been with us three weeks, watching the wheat trying to get into high. On his South Side acres.

Lunched with the Ohio Steel and LimaLoco. With Buckeye Pipe hard by in Dwight Bailey. George Vail and M'scur Laughlin being fellow meat cutters. The discourse was on selling City Hall short. And buying the Square at a profit. In the posse, a salute from Ainsworth Kahle. At a St. Augustine beaery. Viewing the fort, and inspecting the alligators.

See in the paa-pers, Rotary is to give a He-Man party. Wonder if all seats can be sold. When Ma Lynds Pa is going to something where she has no franchise rights, it may start business for the lawyers. Anyway, the police are going so smoothly. And the city has gobs of money. So if Rotary can give us a first-page story, it will brighten things up a wee bit. Jolly well hope my wife, poor wretch, will let me go. Albeit, the date is wash day night. A poor time to get away from the shack, methinks.

Ate early, before the rush at the Waldo, from a well selected platter. A small, fat, chunky, confident, and daring woman at the next table, took two platters. And as I put on my greave-coat, she went back for plum pudding and a second cup of java, with three lumps of sugar. They'll charge excess baggage on her when she starts back to Celina.

In the evening to the Lyric. And so home, late but happy. Started a new furnace fire. But it wouldn't burn, until the ashes were operated upon. And they were taken out less than a week ago, at that. Why don't the Solar come thru with some coke? So to bed.

THE OSTRICH WAYS OF HEALTH

Some one asks about spending the winter can best fortify himself for the season by emulating the New Hampshire boys or the fellow who shouldered the bull. As one help in doing this, establish an absolute limit for the household thermometer and see to it that the temperature throughout the season of artificial heating is never permitted to rise above 68 degrees Fahrenheit. From 60 to 65 degrees is the healthful range.

There is no place whither you or I may go where pneumonia is unlikely to happen, unless it be within polar territory. So far as this risk is concerned, or the relief of bronchitis, residents on more northern places who slip away to Florida or California merely do what the myth makes the ostrich do when he is confronted with danger. One subject to bronchitis or other chronic respiratory disease or unduly susceptible to pneumonia, is "poorly" in the winter because that is the season when foul air is generally deemed fit to breathe. Foul air is air that is still and warm—too still and too warm for health.

It would indeed be silly to urge folks to keep cold and shivering for health's sake. Keep comfortable, by all means, but bear this fact in mind. Natural body warmth which is essential to comfort does not depend on the temperature of the air of the room. Experience proves that it is easier for any one, young or old, feeble or vigorous, to keep comfortable in a room having an air temperature of 65 than it is in a room having a temperature of 75. So don't try to keep good and warm; try to keep cool and well.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Callus Cure

Please tell me something that will cure calluses. I can hardly walk.—Mr. L. Answer—A callus may be softened and removed by the daily application to it of the well known corn remedy—Salicylic acid. 30 grains Flexible Collodion 2 ounces This must be kept very tightly corked, otherwise the ether will evaporate and leave a thick mass in the vessel. A frequent factor in cases of painful callus under the ball of the foot, is flattening of the transverse arch, due to improper shoes. A pad of thick felt or soft leather about the shape and size of the callus should be worn upon the sole to support the arch.

Half a Dozen a Day

I will soon be in Florida; I am very fond of oranges, often eating four or five a day. But some friends tell me this will loosen my teeth and cause an acid condition of my blood. Mrs. L. A.

Answer—Your friends are spoofing. Half a dozen oranges a day would tend rather to render the blood more alkaline, and be beneficial to the teeth and gums. Indeed, the addition of a little orange or orange juice to a diet otherwise deficient has been found to improve the nutrition and condition of the teeth. Perhaps your friends are troubled with sour grapes.

Relax Wins

My grandmother and I have had many heated arguments. I am 16, very fond of walking, skating and other outdoor exercises, but a little pale, puny, and not yet a woman. Grandma says it would be very dangerous for me to keep on such exercises and activities until menstruation becomes established. But she thinks whatever you say is right; so I am resorting to your opinion. Helen.

Answer—All the more important for you to keep up your exercises and outdoor activities for the next year or two. Every girl in her early teens should have plenty of wholesome physical exercise at all times, with no interruptions except for serious illness, as a means which experience has proved best for healthy womanhood.

THE CREPE ON THE DOOR

I hear the fluttering ribbons say; "This house is shedding tears today. Above its roof the skies are blue, The sparrows twitter on the lawn, Life has its daily tasks to do. But here the shades of grief are drawn.

This house is shedding tears today. For one it loved has gone away." To young and old the solemn crepe Proclaims the prisoned soul's escape. The peddler on his morning round, The salesman with his eager eye, Seek fortune of some happier ground—

They, too, have seen a loved one die, They, too, have heard Death's symbol say: "This house is shedding tears today."

The children playing on the street Whisper the story when they meet; They watch the callers come and go, Sad, solemn faces, stained with tears.

Too young to understand or know, They only hear the ribbons say: "This house is shedding tears today."

No house, however strong, can keep, The days away when it must weep, And knowing this, with softer tread

Men walk the home in sorrow by; They, too, have wept beside their dead,

They, too, shall see a loved one die; For all the fluttering crepe shall say: "This house is shedding tears today."

SPICY ODOR BEST FOR FLAPPER

Perfume Is Prescribed to Suit Each Personality

DOG TOOTH FOR DANA TYPE

Some People Have to be Subdivided, Experts Say

NEW YORK — (Special) — Perfecting personality thru perfume.

That's the job of Ann Haviland, who is said to have the most sensitive nose in the world. The crême de la crême of the social and business spheres come to her little laboratory just off Fifth-av for their proper perfume combination.

"A person's charm or lack of it," says Mrs. Haviland, "should be discriminatingly supplemented. This endeavor to do—by compounding a special perfume for each personality."

"For instance, the flapper, really innocent, the desiring beyond all else to impress the world with her sophistication, should use a spice such as carnation or phlox combined with mignonette and heliotrope—if she is brunet.

"If blond, I might suggest that spicy odor given off by the yellow firefly rose. A red-headed flapper should be most careful and tone down her personality with the modest yellow violet."

CLINGING-VINE TYPE
"Then there is clinging-vine type. For her are the cozy, soft odors, Chinese bell-flowers and sweet alysium, petunia or sweet pea. For such a type as Viola Dana, I would doubtless use a dog-tooth yellow wood-violet; for the blond Vivian Martin or Margaret Gilmore, a white violet or lilac combination.

"Various people of the same type naturally have to be subdivided into groups, according to their individual characteristics. Appearances alone tell me nothing. Sometimes the conventional, prim type of woman will ask me for a perfume of white rose. This amuses me, for next to musk and sandalwood, white rose is the most sensuous odor.

"The masculine, assertive type of woman should be supplemented by some perfume that is insidious, that softens the effect of her gruffness and subconsciously makes up for her lack of feminine charm.

"For the domestically inclined girl there is fuchsia, of the primrose family, for the intellectual, the perfume of the wild grape vine, with its fresh, high note of cleanliness.

"For the athletic girl I would suggest basil and verbena with perhaps a touch of geranium. The young, modern girl, indicative of today, can use the sweet tangy quince blossom.

"Often the young mother has a wonderfully gracious personality, she will have a fresh, sweet enthusiasm—a sympathetic quality of charm, and for such I make a rose perfume, blended with oils, when the leaves in the room there remains a lingering memory of her—and who would not retain it?"

"There is the Olga Petrova type—for her I should use a gardenia base, something at once sensuous, yet cold."

"Perfume for men? Yes, men, too, must have their individual perfumes.

"But nothing like sweet oils from flowers, for them. Masculinity can only be rightly supplemented by roots, herbs and moss."

BOXES OF GOLD

BY E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM
Copyright, 1923, by E. Phillips Oppenheim
Arrgt. NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
Vendetta begins between MICHAEL GREYES, noted criminal, and SIR NORMAN GREYES, once of Scotland Yard, when Sayers beautiful housemaid, JANET, saves him from Sir Norman by shooting dead an officer sent to arrest him. Janet becomes Sayers' wife and accomplice. Michael plots to rob two men, Gorty and Metzger, of seven boxes of gold brought into England to establish private credits. It is arranged for two misadventures. Mr. and Mrs. Jose de Miguel, to assist Michael. During the absence of Gorty, Madame de Miguel entrusts Metzger to her room where Michael renders him unconscious. The boxes of gold are substituted for luggage taken from the hotel by the de Miguel, who leave for parts unknown. Greyes is called to investigate.

NOW GO ON WITH STORY
SIR NORMAN CONTINUES:
"I do," was the confident reply. "He was chased out of the States; we have granted an extradition warrant against him on the charge of manslaughter, we have watched every steamship at every port, yet I don't mind confessing to you that we have every reason to believe that he is in London at the present moment and in touch with his old associates."

Notwithstanding Rimmington's conviction, I started on no mad quest of my enemy. Indeed, I had no inspiration as to where to begin my search. Janet had left Alhambra court and had not replied to the various notes which I had written her. I had a vague idea that there was danger in prosecuting inquiries for her too closely. I had an idea, too, which was by no means vague, that I was being watched. There was always a loiterer of some sort or another in the street when I entered or left my rooms. I felt surreptitious eyes upon me when I lunched or dined or visited the theater. Once I walked home late through Lansdowne Passage, and heard the patter of rubber-soled feet behind me. I swung around, and my pursuer, whoever he was, a burly but agile figure, took refuge in flight.

It was about three weeks after the attack upon Metzger and the disappearance of the gold, when I received a most unexpected visitor. I heard a shrill, foreign voice in the hall overriding my servant's objections, and a moment later a man entered unannounced and evidently in a state of some excitement.

"You are Sir Norman Greyes?" he said. "I am Gorty. I came to this country of outlaws with Metzger—with him who lies in the hospital. Will you listen to me?"

I motioned to Adams to leave us, and wheeled round an easy-chair for my visitor.
"What am I to think?" he demanded fiercely. "I come from a great but poor government. With much trouble we got together the gold with which to buy materials in this country and open credits. It is you who are supposed to be more civilized than any other great country. I go to Manchester to speak at a meeting. I come back, and what do I find? My comrade brutally assaulted, my country's gold stolen! Yes, and that in the heart of your London—in the center of your civilization! What am I to think of you, then, as a people, I ask?"

"It was a most unusual crime," I told him, "but you must remember that you were taking grave risks in having a large amount of gold like that unguarded in your room. The police, however, are doing—"

"The police?" he almost shrieked. "Your police? They are imbeciles—imbeciles or rascals, I know not which! And as to having the money unguarded, how could we help it? There are many banks in London who say we owe them money. What would have happened if I had deposited my gold there? They would surely have annexed it. And as it is, do you believe that it is an ordinary thief who has robbed us? No! I am afraid," I said, "that you are taking a very extreme view of things. However, under the circumstances I cannot blame you for feeling ill used. Tell me what brings you here."

"Ten years ago," he went on, suddenly calmer, "I was in the service of the police of my country. There was an anarchist plot. Three criminals escaped to London. You were at Scotland Yard, and I came to see "You found me those criminals," I asked.

"Tell me what can I do for you?" I asked.
"Find me my gold," he demanded. "Find me the man who attacked Metzger."

SIR NORMAN TALKS:
He drew his easy-chair a little closer to mine. He eyed my box of cigarettes hungrily. I placed it by his side, and handed him a match. He smoked furiously.
"Listen," he confided; "I have a piece of evidence. I will not take it to the police. I do not trust them. You shall find me my gold."

A MOMENT LATER A MAN ENTERED UNANNOUNCED AND EVIDENTLY IN A STATE OF SOME EXCITEMENT.

"What is your piece of evidence?" I asked.
"The little gray man," he answered, "the man whom they spoke of as visiting the South Americans in the next suite. Ah, those South Americans—I never trusted them! I saw Madame makes eyes at Metzger. What need had she of Metzger. A woman like that has lovers enough."

"About the little gray man?" I ventured.
"They speak of him in the evidence," Gorty went on eagerly. "He was at the suite that night. I saw him with Madame the South American, two days before. I know where he is to be found now."

"Why the devil haven't you told the police?" I exclaimed. "That is the one man they are looking for." "But have I not explained?" he expostulated. "I do not trust the police. Six of those solemn constables would march up in uniform to the place I spoke of, and the little gray man would slip away. I tell you. You must find him and see who he is. You must consider how to act. The assault upon Metzger was bad, but it is the gold I want."

"Very well," I said, "tell me where to find him."
"Go to the reading-room at the British Museum between eleven and one o'clock," Gorty told me. "You will find him there, reading. I myself am a student. Twice I have sat at the next table. He is reading from some rare volumes the 'History of the Rosicrucians.'"

"Between eleven and one," I repeated.
"You will go?"
"Tomorrow morning," I promised. Gorty arose.
"Listen, Greyes," he said, "—you, Sir Norman Greyes. Will you swear that if you recover my gold, it comes to me?"

"I swear it," I answered.
"Then through that man you will find it," he declared.

Gorty was right. The moment when, from my place of concealment I saw him come shuffling into the reading-room and take his place nearly opposite to me at the great round table, I knew very well that this was Michael. He carried with him two or three books, a volume of reference and a notebook. He had the appearance of the most devout bibliophile, and indeed, having watched him for some time, I came to the conclusion that he was in earnest about his labors. It was in these little ways that Michael achieved real greatness. Details was a passion with him. He not only appeared to be deeply interested in the Rosicrucian history. He had actually become so.

I was without doubt at fault not to have at once passed on my information to Rimmington and to have had my old adversary arrested on one of the many previous counts against him. It seemed to me, however, that this would bring to an end our chances of recovering the gold, and I could not ignore the fact that I was indebted to Gorty for the information which had delivered Michael into my hands. I therefore maintained a strict watch, and waited.

For three days and three nights I knew Michael's every movement. He made his own breakfast lunched at a small restaurant near the Museum, and dined each night at the Monica, where he sometimes played dominoes for an hour afterward, if able to find an opponent. On the fourth night, however, he departed from his usual practices. The young woman whom I had been employing to watch him came to me in haste.

"Our friend," she announced, "called at the Monica but took only an aperitif there. He walked across to Romono's and has ordered a table and dinner for two."

"Whereabouts?" I asked quickly.
"Downstairs in the restaurant on the right-hand side," she replied.

I rang up Romono's and engaged one of the tables in the balcony. In a quarter of an hour I was escorted there behind the curtain, with Miss Rose Weston, the young woman who had brought me the news of Michael's change of plans, as my companion. She had found time to change into evening clothes, and she played her part exceedingly well. We should have passed anywhere as a very ordinary couple, indulging in a somewhat pronounced dinner flirtation. I kept my eye, however, on the table at which Michael was seated below, and in due course I was rewarded. A very elegant, quietly dressed woman came into the restaurant and sank into the chair by his side. I saw at once that it was Janet.

"What you expected?" my companion asked quickly.
"In a sense," I admitted. "Remember, when they leave, it is the woman you follow."

I watched them closely from behind the curtain. There was no more distinguished-looking woman in the room than Janet, or more beautiful. She talked in a low tone to her companion, and her manner was often earnest. Nevertheless, she never smiled. She was different in that respect from every one of the diners by whom she was surrounded. There was not a suggestion of festivity about her. She ate moderately, drank sparingly, and talked. All the time she gave me the impression of a great weariness. Toward the end of the meal, what I had been watching for happened. She opened her handbag and passed something across the table. It was about the size and shape of an ordinary shotgun cartridge but I felt certain, from the way she handled it, that it was heavy. I knew then that we were on the right track.

lace veil from a New York importing house. It is very magnificent and I think quite reasonable at $7000. I feel very proud of this, as you told me you would be willing to go as high as ten thousand dollars. The trousseau I have been making for your daughter is the most beautiful collection of gowns and suits and negligees I have ever made. I wish some of my other patrons would give me carte blanche in matters of this kind.

I know Miss Leslie will wear my handiwork beautifully. Will you and she call on me tomorrow to try on the wedding dress and arrange for the veil and other garnitures? Yours respectfully, EMELIE LA MONDE

LETTER FROM LESLIE HAMILTON TO MRS. MARY ALDEN PRESCOTT

MY DEAR MRS. PRESCOTT:
It was awfully sweet of you to think of giving me that lovely historic and priceless desk. It came this morning and I immediately had it unpacked and it now holds the place of honor in the room which contains my wedding presents.

You could not have given me anything that would have made me happier. In the first place, I am fond of beautiful old furniture or antiques of any kind. That is one thing I presume that you and I have in common. In the second place, the thoughts that the great-grandmother of my John probably danced with Lafayette, and maybe even flirted with him a little, gives me the greatest thrill.

I spent one whole hour this morning which I should not have done as John who is already here was coming to take me for a motor ride—hunting for that secret drawer. Wouldn't it be wonderful if we should find some letters in it that once belonged to Lafayette or even John's great-grandmother. You may rest assured that I shall keep on hunting and I am sure that I shall find that secret place. I feel as you do, however, that I would not have alien hands take the desk to pieces to do this. I must find it all myself and I think now that when I do, I shall tell nobody, not even you.

John came last night and, of course, we are both very happy. He is looking forward to your coming with great pleasure. He is not looking quite as well as when I met him in Albany, three weeks ago. He has a little worried wrinkle between his eyes and every time the doorbell rings, he seems to expect a telegram. But he insists that everything is all right; that he is only nervous and tired, you know. He has just put over a big advertising campaign for which the firm raised his salary a thousand dollars a year. Isn't that splendid? You and I, however, know that it is only what he deserved.

John is quite as delighted with your gift as I am. He said to me, "Wasn't that sporting of mother? I believe that next to me she thinks more of that desk than anything else in the world."

CLIPPING FROM THE SHARON DISPATCH

Among the gorgeous and wonderful presents that are being showered upon Miss Leslie Hamilton, who is to be married on the twenty-second, is a desk from the bridegroom's mother—a desk which was given to Lafayette by the first Napoleon and which passed from his hands directly to the great-grandmother of the bridegroom. Naturally, with its history and associations, Miss Hamilton regards it as the most beautiful of all her gifts. Mrs. Mary Alden Prescott will arrive here on the twenty-first to attend her son's wedding.

NOTE FROM ALICE HAMILTON TO KARL WHITNEY

DEAR KARL:
I never was so set up in all my life to think that you have asked my help in your dilemma. It makes me understand that at least no one can call me a child again. I am glad you did not tell mother, however, for I am sure she would have made I feel refuse to take the pearls and I know that you would have been heartbroken, as well as Leslie, had Leslie come to hear about it.

Ask me to tea at the club the last of next week. I'm sure we can figure out some way of making my sister the recipient of this magnificent gift at that time.

I felt very important—just like a conspirator. Sincerely, ALICE.

"For instance, the flapper, really innocent, the desiring beyond all else to impress the world with her sophistication, should use a spice such as carnation or phlox combined with mignonette and heliotrope—if she is blond.

"If blond, I might suggest that spicy odor given off by the yellow firefly rose. A red-headed flapper should be most careful and tone down her personality with the most delicate yellow violet."

"Then there is the clinging-vine type. For her are the cozy, soft odors, Chinese bell-flowers and sweet almond, petunia or sweet pea. For such a type as Viola Davis, I would doubtless use a dog-tooth yellow wood-violet, for the blond Vivian Martha or Margalo Gilmore, a white violet or lilac combination.

"Various people of the same type naturally have to be subdivided into groups, according to their individual characteristics. Appearances alone tell me nothing. Sometimes the conventional, prim type of woman will ask me for a perfume of white rose. This amuses me, for next to musk and sandalwood, white rose is the most sensuous odor.

"The masculine, assertive type of woman should be supplemented by some perfume that is insidious, that softens the effect of her gruffness and subconsciously makes up for her lack of feminine charm.

"For the domestically inclined girl there is fuchsia, of the prim-rose family, for the intellectual, the perfume of the wild grape vine, with its rich, high note of cleanliness for the artistic girl. I would suggest basil and chamomile with perhaps a touch of calypso. The young, modern girlhood of today can use the sweet, sunny, sunny blossom.

"Often the young motorist has a wonderfully gracious personality, she will have a firm, sweet enthusiasm — a sympathetic quality of charm, and for such I make a rose perfume, blended with oils, when he leaves the room there remains a lingering memory of her — and who would not retain it?"

"There is the Olga Petrova type — for her I should use a gardenia base, something at once sensuous, yet cool."

"Perfume for men? Yes, men, too, must have their individual perfumes."

"But nothing like sweet oils from flowers for them! Masculinity can only be rightly supplemented by roots, herbs and mosses."

BOXES OF GOLD
BY E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM
 Copyright, 1923, by E. Phillips Oppenheim
 Arret. NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
 Vendetta begins between MICHAEL SAYERS, noted criminal, and SIR NORMAN GREYES, once of Scotland Yard, when Sayers beautiful housemaid, JANET, saves him from Sir Norman by shooting dead an officer sent to arrest him. Janet becomes Sayers' wife and accomplice. Michael plots to rob two men, Gorty and Metzger, of seven boxes of gold brought into England to establish private credits. It is arranged for two muscaders, Mr. and Mrs. Jose de Miguel, to assist Michael. During the absence of Gorty, Madame de Miguel entices Metzger to her hotel room where Michael renders him unconscious. The boxes of gold are substituted for luggage taken from the hotel by the de Miguels, who leave for parts unknown. Greyes is called to investigate.

NOW GO ON WITH STORY
SIR NORMAN CONTINUES:
 "I do," was the confident reply. "He was chased out of the States; we have granted an extradition warrant against him on the charge of manslaughter; we have watched every steamship at every port; yet I don't mind confessing to you that we have every reason to believe that he is in London at the present moment and in touch with his old associates."

Notwithstanding Birmingham's conviction, I started on no mad quest of my enemy. Indeed, I had no inspiration as to where to begin my search. Janet had left, Albernarr Court and had not replied to the various notes which I had written her. I had a vague idea that there was danger in prosecuting inquiries for her too closely. I had an idea, too, which was by no means vague, that I was being watched. There was always a loiterer of some sort or other in the street when I entered or left my rooms. I felt surreptitious eyes upon me when I lunched or dined or visited the theater. Once I walked home late through Lansdowne Passage, and heard the patter of rubber-shod feet behind me I swung around, and my pursuer, whoever he was, a burly but agile figure, took refuge in flight.

It was about three weeks after the attack upon Metzger and the disappearance of the gold, when I received a most unexpected visitor. I heard a shrill, foreign voice in the hall overriding my servant's objections, and a moment later a man entered unannounced and evidently in a state of some excitement.

"You are Sir Norman Greyes?" he said. "I am Gorty. I came to this country of cutthroats with Metzger—with him who lies in the hospital. Will you listen to me?"

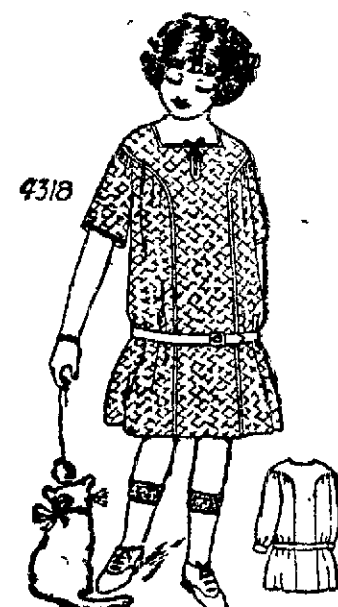

"What am I to think?" he demanded fiercely. "I come from a great but poor government. With much trouble we got together the gold with which to buy materials in this country and open credits. It is you who are supposed to be more civilized than any other great country. I go to Manchester to speak at a meeting. I come back, and what do I find? My comrades brutally assaulted, my country's gold stolen! Yes, and that in the heart of your London—in the center of your civilization! What am I to think of you, then, as a people, I ask?"

"It was a most unusual crime," I told him, "but you must remember that you were taking grave risks in having a large amount of gold like that unguarded in your room. The police, however, are doing—"

"The police?" he almost shrieked. "Your police? They are imbeciles—imbeciles or rascals. I know not which! And as to having the money unguarded, how could we help it? There are many banks in London who say we owe them money. What would have happened if I had deposited my gold there? They would surely have annexed it. And as it is, do you believe that it is an ordinary thief who has robbed us? No! I am afraid," I said, "that you are taking a very extreme view of things. However, under the circumstances I cannot blame you for feeling ill used. Tell me what brings you here?"

"Ten years ago," he went on, suddenly changing the subject, "I was a soldier of the police of my country. There was an anarchist plot. Three criminals escaped to London. You were at Scotland Yard, and I came to see you. You found me those criminals. "Tell me what can I do for you?" I asked.

"Find me my gold," he demanded. "Find me the man who attacked Metzger."

A MOMENT LATER A MAN ENTERED UNANNOUNCED AND EVIDENTLY IN A STATE OF SOME EXCITEMENT.

It to the police. I do not trust them. You shall find me my gold."

"What is your piece of evidence?" I asked.

"The little gray man," he answered. "The man whom they speak of as visiting the South American in the next suite. Ah, those South Americans—I never trusted them! I saw Madame makes eyes at Metzger. What need had she of Metzger. A woman like that has lovers enough."

"About the little gray man?" I ventured.

"They speak of him in the evidence," Gorty went on eagerly. "He was the man that night. I saw him with Madame the South American, two days before. I know where he is to be found now."

"Why the devil haven't you told the police?" I exclaimed. "That is the one man they are looking for!"

"But have I not explained?" he expostulated. "I do not trust the police. Six of those solemn constables would march up in uniform to the place I spoke of, and the little gray man would slip away. I tell you, you must find him and see who he is. You must consider how to act. The assault upon Metzger was bad, but it is the gold I want."

"Very well," I said, "tell me where to find him."

"Go to the reading-room at the British Museum between eleven and one o'clock," Gorty told me. "You will find him there, reading. I, myself, am a student. Twice I have sat at the next table. He is reading from some rare volumes the 'History of the Rosicrucians'."

"Between eleven and one," I repeated.

"You will go?"

"Tomorrow morning," I promised. Gorty arose.

"Listen, Greyes," he said, "you, Sir Norman Greyes. Will you swear

"I swear it," I answered.

"Then through that man you will find it," he declared.

Gorty was right. The moment when, from my place of concealment, I saw him come shuffling into the reading-room and take his place nearly opposite to me at the great round table, I knew very well that this was Michael. He carried with him two or three books, a volume of reference, and a book of the appearance of the most devoted bibliophile, and indeed, having watched him for some time, I came to the conclusion that he was in earnest about his labors. It was in these little ways that Michael achieved real greatness. Details was a passion with him. He not only appeared to be deeply interested in the Rosicrucian history. He had actually become so.

I was without doubt at fault not to have at once passed on my information to Birmingham and to have had my old adversary arrested on one of the many previous counts against him. It seemed to me, however, that this would bring to an end our chances of recovering the gold, and I could not ignore the fact that I was indebted to Gorty for the information which had delivered Michael into my hands. I therefore maintained a strict watch, and waited.

For three days and three nights I knew Michael's every movement. He made his own breakfast lunched at a small restaurant near the Museum, and dined each night at the Monica, where he sometimes played dominoes for an hour afterward, if able to find an opponent. On the fourth night, however, he departed from his usual practices. The young woman whom I had been employing to watch him came to me in haste.

"Our friend," she announced, "called at the Monica but took only an aperitif there. He walked across to Ronomo's and has ordered a table and dinner for two."

"Whereabouts?" I asked quickly.

"Downstairs in the restaurant on the right-hand side," she replied.

I rang up Ronomo's and engaged one of the tables in the balcony. In a quarter of an hour I was escorted there behind the curtain, with Miss Ross Weston, the young woman who had brought me the news of Michael's change of plans, as my companion. She had found time to change into evening clothes, and she played her part exceedingly well. We should have passed anywhere as a very ordinary couple indulging in a somewhat pronounced dinner flirtation. I kept my eye, however, on the table at which Michael was seated below, and in due course I was rewarded. A very elegant, quietly dressed woman came into the restaurant and sank into the chair by his side. I saw at once that it was Janet.

"What you expected?" my companion asked quickly.

"In a sense," I admitted. "Remember, when they leave, it is the woman you follow."

I watched them closely from behind the curtain. There was no more distinguished-looking woman in the room than Janet, or more beautiful. She talked in a low tone to her companion, and her manner was often earnest. Nevertheless, she never smiled. She was different in that respect from every one of the diners by whom she was surrounded. There was not a suggestion of festivity about her. She ate moderately, drank sparingly, and talked. All the time she gave one the impression of a great weariness. Toward the end of the meal, what I had been watching for happened. She opened her handbag and passed something across the table. It was about the size and shape of an ordinary shotgun cartridge but I felt certain, from the way she handled it, that it was heavy. I knew then that we were on the right track.

LETTER FROM LESLIE HAMILTON TO MRS. MARY ALDIN PRESCOTT

MY DEAR MRS. PRESCOTT:
 It was awfully sweet of you to think of giving me that lovely historic and priceless desk. It came this morning and I immediately had it unpacked and it now holds the place of honor in the room which contains my wedding presents.

You could not have given me anything that would have made me happier. In the first place, I am mad over beautiful old furniture or antiques of any kind. That is one thing I presume that you and I have in common. In the second place, the thoughts that the great-grandmother of my John probably danced with Lafayette, and maybe even flirted with him a little, gives me the greatest thrill.

I spent one whole hour this morning—which I should not have done as John, who is already here, was coming to take me for a motor ride—hunting for that secret drawer. Wouldn't it be wonderful if we should find some letters in it that once belonged to Lafayette or even John's great-grand-grandmother. You may rest assured that I shall keep on hunting and I am sure that I shall find that secret place. I feel as you do, however, that I would not have alien hands take the desk to pieces to do this. I must find it all myself and I think now that when I do, I shall tell nobody, not even you. John came last night and, of course, we are both very happy. He is looking forward to your coming with great pleasure. He is not looking quite as well as when I met him in Albany, three weeks ago. He has a little worried wrinkle between his eyes and every time the doorbell rings, he seems to expect a telegram. But he insists that everything is all right; that he is only nervous and tired, you know. He has just put over a big advertisement campaign for which the firm raised his salary a thousand dollars a year. Isn't that splendid? You and I, however, know that it is only what he deserved.

John is quite as delighted with your gift as I am. He said to me, "Wasn't that sporting of mother? I believe that next to me she thinks more of that desk than anything else in the world."

And I answered, "Well, next to you, dear boy, I come very near to thinking more of it than anything else in the world."

I am sending you a clipping which appeared in the society column today. You know everything about my wedding is duly chronicled by some reporter.

Lovingly and gratefully yours,
 LESLIE HAMILTON.

CLIPPING FROM THE SHARON DISPATCH

Among the gorgeous and wonderful presents that are being showered upon Miss Leslie Hamilton, who is to be married on the twenty-second, is a desk from the bridegroom's mother—a desk which was given to Lafayette by the first Napoleon and which passed from his hands directly to the great-grand-grandmother of the bridegroom. Naturally, with its history and associations, Miss Hamilton regards it as the most beautiful of all her gifts. Mrs. Mary Aldin Prescott will arrive here on the twenty-first to attend her son's wedding.

NOTE FROM ALICE HAMILTON TO KARL WHITNEY

DEAR KARL:
 I never was so set up in all my life to think that you have asked my help in your dilemma. It makes me understand that at least no one can call me a child again. I am glad you did not tell mother, however, for I am sure she would have made Leslie refuse to take the pearls and I know that you would have been heartbroken, as well as Leslie, had Leslie come to hear about it.

Ask me to tea at the club the last of next week. I'm sure we can figure out some way of making my sister the recipient of this magnificent gift at that time.

I feel very important—just like a conspirator. Sincerely, ALICE.

BAITS ARE SET FOR AMERICANS

Curio Shops of London Preparing for Tourists

GREAT ARMY IS EXPECTED

Fashion This Year is Largely for Things Oriental

(BY DAVID L. BLUMFELD)
LONDON. — (United Press) — Signs of the usual summer American invasion of London are already noticeable. The tell-tale antique shops give notice that the great army will soon be on its way.

In other words, the curio dealers and antique shops of old London are setting their very tempting baits for those Americans who have the taste and money with which to indulge it.

The fashion this year is largely for things Oriental; Persian arms and armor; rugs from Bokhara and Samarkand; wonder cases from Trebizend, cunningly inlaid and damascened; statues from dim ages of old China; enamel from Korea, the land of a thousand ghosts, which the Japanese call chosen.

BAIT FOR AMERICANS

I walked into a curio shop just off Bond-st. The shop is very famous and all its contents are of the very best. A uniformed commissionaire swung open the door and the perfumes of the East assailed me. On the walls hung beautiful rugs, scintillating color and age. Across a table, on which lay a priceless prayer rug, lay a Caliph's scimitar, graceful, shaped like the crescent moon, its blade inlaid with magic Koran inscriptions in gold, its hilt encrusted with gems, delicate as the petals of a flower. Along the wall-top little golden figures of the gods looked down out of the half-light, sitting on their lotus thrones, calm, serene, brooding there — Buddha, Brahma, Kwan-yin, goddess of Mercy whom the Japanese name Kwanon; Shiva of India, and Emma-O, Chinese and Japanese King of Hell.

And behind a curtain, drawn back and exposed to gaze were a series of those wonderful Ushabti figures from the Egyptian tombs of the Valley of the Kings, magic intriguing.

Perhaps you do not know the story of these Egyptian Ushabti figures. I am going to tell you the meaning of these three and four thousand year old magic figures. One day you yourself will come across one of them going cheap maybe, as I have done, your knowledge of them will tempt you, I think, to buy.

The ancient Egyptians were an agricultural race. Rich and poor alike made their money from the fields. Consequently at death, the Egyptian was faced with the problem of how to gain a living in the next world. He knew that he would have to perform agricultural work in the Heavenly fields, but he did not feel up to doing it.

So at his death he had a small, little seven inch high man, of himself in clay and stone. On them were lent the name and titles of him whom they were supposed to represent, on one hand the Ushabti carried a digging tool, in the other a flail to oversee the other workers, and over his left shoulder a basket, with which to work in the fields.

Magic inscriptions were cut below the names and titles, to the effect that at death the figure would change into a human being and "go forth into the fields and reap and sow and draw water," as soon as the deceased found himself in the other world and pronounced certain words of power.

The magic formula repeated the Ushabti figure would then change into a man and say "Ushabti" ("Lo, I am here") and go forth to do the work. Every Egyptian from the first of the Pharaohs—Menes—down to the Christian era provided himself with Ushabti figures which were buried with him at death. The richer the man the more Ushabti buried with him, and the more beautiful the work lavished on them. The very poor, who could only afford one or two, had to be satisfied with poor, ill-shaped figures.

The other day they unearthed the chief Ushabti figure of King Tutankhamen, and consequently, today, all Egypt-mad London is searching the curio shops for real Ushabti from the tombs. A few months ago they were to be had in certain shops, comparatively cheap. A good Ushabti figure of the 25th dynasty (about B. C. 550) could be bought for five dollars. Today, since the finding of King Tutankhamen, the same figures are fetching $50, $75 and $100.

And the Ushabti figures which rested behind the curtain in that shop of beautiful things were priced far higher than that.

"Who will buy them?" I asked. The assistant smiled knowingly. "Americans, Sir," he said.

We Guarantee, Madam to stop falling hair —to grow new hair in 90 days this new way or money refunded

Science discovers most all falling, lustreless hair due to simple infection (Sebum). Now quickly overcome. Hair actually re-grown on 91 heads in 100.

World-great dermatologists are now employing a new and radically different formula in hair treatment, with almost unbelievable results.

This is to offer you an opportunity to test it in your own home.

Note that it is guaranteed absolutely. Guaranteed to start a growth of new hair — lustrous, beautiful, youthful — in 90 days or your money refunded. And to stop falling hair.

If it fails, it costs you nothing. Your own druggist signs the guarantee, so we take all the risk.

Why 6 Women in 8 Hair Dull, Unattractive Hair

Science has recently discovered that hair root seldom die. They can be revived—given new life.

We have proved that conclusively by re-growing hair on 91 heads in 100. The method we use is new. Years of exhaustive experiments were spent perfecting it.

Now world-great dermatologists employ these ingredients. Falling hair, dull, lifeless hair; hair without sheen or luster — 6 women in 8 have it.

The reason for most of it is a very simple infection. An infected scalp oil called Sebum. This new way quickly overcomes it. It starts to act instantly.

The Infected Sebum in Your Hair Sebum is an oil. It forms at the follicles of the hair. Its natural function is to supply the hair with oil.

But frequently it becomes infected. It cakes on the scalp; clogs the follicles and plugs them. Go to the mirror and you can see it in your hair, either in the form of dandruff or in that of an oily excretion at the hair roots.

Germs by the millions breed in it, then feed upon the hair. Soon your hair begins falling. You note too how lifeless it appears. In a short time, all the natural luster and beauty are gone.

But—and note this scientific fact—remove the Sebum and the hair reverts back to the softness and brilliancy it displayed when you were a school girl.

The Van Ess Treatment accomplishes that result. We know you will doubt it. So we guarantee it. New hair grown in 90 days. Falling hair stopped. Your own druggist gives you our guarantee to do these things with each 3-bottle purchase. He signs it. If we fail, your money will be refunded without argument. There is a printed guarantee in the top of each package. Read it first before you buy. Note its fairness.

Where to Obtain the Treatment We urge you to give this new way a fair trial. Remember, you take no risk.

Go to any druggist or department store today. Ask for the Van Ess Liquid Scalp Massage. Written guarantee accompanies it.

Costs Nothing

Unless we grow hair. The Van Ess 3-bottle treatment is absolutely guaranteed. You are the sole judge. The warrant is signed by your own druggist. All we require in his signature showing you have purchased a thirty-day treatment. If it fails, we refund your money. Hence you assume no risk making this test.

Note This New Way

—It Massages the Treatment Directly to the Follicles of the Hair

You can see from illustration that Van Ess is not a "tonic." It combines a massage and lotion in one treatment. You do not rub it in with your fingers. Each package comes with a rubber massage cap. The nipples are hollow. Just invert bottle, rub your head, and nipples automatically feed lotion down to follicles of the scalp where it can do some good. At the same time the nipples give your head a massage. It is very easy to apply. One minute each day is enough.

WILHELM'S WIFE IS WATCHED

Greek Government Forbids
Travel in That Country

DOMESTIC STRIFE DENIED

Former Kaiser Tells of Happiness in Letters to Friends

DOORN, Holland. — (Special)—
Speculation is rife hereabouts over the reported refusal of the Greek government to allow Hermine von Schoenaich-Carolath, Princess zu
Reuss, bride of the former German emperor, to go for a rest to the Greek island of Corfu.

Wiseacres also are shaking their heads over the apparent unwilling-ness of Dutch officials to allow the ex-kaiser's bride to leave Holland.
Class surveillance continually is maintained over Doorn castle and Hermine leaves the grounds only when she goes to shop in the village or to visit acquaintances.

Is the attitude of the Greek and Dutch governments the results of pressure on the part of the great powers?

ROYALIST PLOT
Do the great powers feel that, if
Hermine were allowed to leave
Doorn, she might become a powerful cog in a plot to restore the ex-kaiser to the German throne?

Those questions are being asked
—and asked seriously.

In answer, it is pointed out, the ex-kaiser's marriage to Hermine was the greatest possible blow that could be dealt to the ex-monarch's aspiration to rule Germany again.

For the marriage not only aroused antagonism on the part of Wilhelm's family, but it wrecked his prestige all over Germany because of the high place the former empress had occupied in the hearts of all the German people.

Despite all that, rumors that the powers fear Hermine as a royalist conspirator are persistent.

Allowed to leave Doorn, Hermine could assemble groups of royalist sympathizers without arousing suspicion, it is pointed out. She could act as the kaiser's personal agent among them. She could carry messages from them back to Wilhelm.

Meanwhile Hermine remains solaced at Doorn castle. Rumors that she and Wilhelm have quarreled are peddled about daily and always are followed by a crop of denials.

A report that Hermine expects to become a mother also is current. It has not been officially verified but it seems to have much better basis than many of the rumors emanating from the shrubbery-guarded castle of mystery.

MARRIED NOV. 5
Wilhelm von Hohenzollern and Hermine von Schoenaich-Carolath,
Princess zu Reuss, were married at Doorn castle Nov. 5, 1922. It was the second adventure in matrimony for both.

Hermine was then 35. She was the mother of five children, the eldest 16.

Her family traces its history as a reigning power back 1000 years. It had been bitterly opposed to the Hohenzollern family since the family came into power with the establishment of the German empire.

The family carries a hereditary strain of insanity. A brother of Hermine is a hopeless idiot and two of her sisters have been inmates of insane asylums.

The princess, however, is a normal, healthy woman. She is a modest housewife and mother. Her tastes are very domestic.

Wilhelm's acquaintance with the princess began when one of her children sent to him a letter of condolence immediately after the death of the former empress.

The ex-kaiser addressed his reply to Hermine. A correspondence developed, the result of which was an invitation to Hermine to visit Doorn.

Three days after her arrival the former emperor is said to have asked her to become his wife.

Following the wedding ceremony
Wilhelm officially crowned his bride
"queen of Prussia."

In December he wrote friends he was "extremely happy." But in the following month reports of a break between Wilhelm and his bride became current.

PASSOVER, INSTITUTION OF JUDAISM, WILL OPEN SUNDAY IN SYNAGOGUES

Passover, known in the Synagog as Pesach, falls due this year on Sunday, April 1st.

No special services will be held by the Jewish people of Lima in its observance, it was announced Friday.

It is one of the institutions of Judaism which has gained wide acceptance and joyous approval and is observed for a period of seven days by the more liberal, and eight by those more ritualistic, inclined.
The first and last days, however, have a special ritual observance in connection with Temple service, the keynote of which is liberty and redemption from bondage.

During the Passover week all orthodox Jewish families, do without leaven bread in any form, using instead a large, flat, wafer-shaped bread called Matzo, as a more ritualistically inclined. The first reminder of the hasty exodus of their father from the land of oppression, Egypt.

Coming as it does in the springtide of the year, Passover fills each creature with joy and hope. It fore-visions an era when liberty will be the common heritage of all humanity. The modern Jew utilizes this Feast as an assurance, that with the awakening of social justice and responsibility in our generation there is a promise of a better future for all children of men. In this spirit Passover is observed among the

NELSON'S FLAGSHIP TO BE SAVED BY BRITISH

LONDON — The fund to save Nelson's famous flagship, the "Victory," has been swelled by a gift of 50,000 pounds from a "well wisher of the navy."

For some time the old wooden man of war has been rotting in her drydock at Portsmouth but the work of restoring her will soon begin so that she may ever be a symbol of wave ruling Britannia.
It is expected that the craft will be kept in a drydock dedicated to her use alone, altho the suggestion has been made that she be placed at the base of the Nelson column in Trafalgar Square.

Nelson's "Victory," the fifth ship of that name in the British navy was laid down in 1759. She saw 34 years of war and became the last survivor of those wooden vessels which won the empire.

REALTORS PLEDGE HELP TO LIMA

Secret Appraisal of City Hall is Proposed

CONFIDENCE VOTE GIVEN

Bingham Tells Body of Municipal Finances

An offer to secretly appraise City Hall should it be found necessary to sell it, was made by W. R. M. Mough, president of the Lima Realtors' board, at their monthly dinner meeting in Hotel Argonne Friday night.

This work, which would be done by the appraisal committee of the realtors' body, would be of considerable help to the city of Lima, and should the hall be sold it would not be at a loss of money to the city, it was pointed out.

C. A. Bingham, city manager, says the realtors' first hand information on the financial condition of the city. He stated that it is now worse than a year ago and that something must be done to remedy the situation. At the present time the dollar which comes into the city is divided so that the city receives but nine cents, Bingham declared.

This is because state and county and schools must have their share and it can easily be seen that the proportion is badly off, he declared. Out of this nine cents of each tax dollar must come all the necessary funds to run the city. In the year of 1923 the city must be run on less than $200,000 while a year ago the appropriation was larger by more than a hundred thousand dollars.

CITY FUNDS LACK
Bingham gave the condition of the city's financial affairs last Thursday morning. It was a bare $6,600. At the present time the safety fund has $1,500. Firemen's and policemen's salaries are due soon and as this will amount to $4,000 the city is almost $500 short in that one respect, he indicated. It would be almost impossible to raise the money as the city's finances are terribly depleted in every department, Bingham added.

In talking of the condition, Bingham asserted that the only alternative is a strict rationing of property in the city. Today there are down town properties in Lima that are appraised at one tenth and one-fifth their real value, he declared.

The realtors gave a vote of confidence to Bingham. They will stand behind the city in this move and to do all within their power to overcome the crisis. He asserted that when necessary funds are available, reapportionment, zoning, building code and electric inspection ordinances will be put into effect.

An open market for real estate in the city thru the medium of the multiple listing system was advocated by D. C. Boyd of Dayton. Boyd is secretary of the Dayton Realtors' association and told how much good the multiple listing system would do for the city.

With the establishment of the system it will mean that all property bought and sold will be exchanged at a fair market value, he declared. When the public buys or sells it is certain that it is dealing with a recognized group of men who have confidence in their transactions. At the same time the buyer knows when he sells he will receive full market value and when he buys he will not pay an inflated price, Boyd pointed out.

Thru this system a larger market is seen. Instead of the property in the hands of one broker he has a hundred brokers trying to sell his property for him and if he buys he has every piece of property in the city listed for sale to choose from. When a property changes hands under the multiple listing system only one commission is charged to the property owner or seller and there is no possible chance for dispute, Boyd said.

The Lima Realtors' board now has 45 realtors members, 16 associate members, who are composed of various business men of Lima and eight honorary members. The honorary members are city officials. It was the main purpose of the meeting last night to introduce the associate members. The multiple listing system will go into effect in Lima April 1 with Ed T. Layport in charge of the offices.

LEGION POST PROPOSED FOR COLORED VETERANS

An American Legion Post for colored ex-service men is to be organized in Lima, it was decided at a meeting held at the home of Robert Spencer, 516 S. Nye-st, Thursday night.

Morris Conner, commander of William Paul Gallagher post, and Gail McGuinness, a trustee were present, and outlined the plan of procedure for the colored veterans. There are more than 100 men in Lima who will be eligible for membership.

TWO WIVES ASK DIVORCE ON GROUNDS OF NEGLECT; ONE FOR SECOND TIME

Divorce applications were filed by two wives in common pleas court Friday, neglect being alleged as grounds in each case.

Mrs. Celia S. Shearin, Longacre, place, charges that John Q. Shearin, Highland, Ore. to whom she was married in 1914, neglected to provide her with the necessities of life, and frequently struck and beat her. The petition also recites that Shearin was addicted to the use of intoxicating beverages.

The right to resume her former name, Celia McDonald, is sought together with title to property jointly owned by the two. The property comprises two lots in Longacre place, and a 12-acre tract in Bath.

A second attempt at marriage failed when divorce action was filed by Mrs. Minnie L. Dearth, formerly of Akron, naming W. E. Dearth, Detroit, as defendant.

The couple were first married at Akron in 1911, the petition says, and divorced two years afterward. The wife obtained custody of her son. A reconciliation was effected and a second ceremony performed in 1921. Alleged failure of Dearth to support her caused her to seek freedom a second time.

LABOR BODY WILL ASK
REPEAL OF LICENSE LAW

Formal request for the repeal or amendment of the employment agency license ordinance will be made Monday night before the city commission by the Central Trades and Labor council.

A ruling of the Ohio Industrial commission, obtained by the Lima council, may be quoted in support of the request, V. H. Eifinger, secretary of the council said Friday.

The council will ask only that the ordinance be revised to conform with state laws. Eifinger said. A conflict exists as the ordinance is at present worded, it was said.

The city commission has publicly declared that it would review the ordinance if the labor council would make written request that it do so, provided the suggested amendments are fair to all concerned.

Blackheaded
Pimples Quit

Why? Pimple-Poison Goes Where Red-Blood-Cells Increase S. S. S. Builds These Red-Blood-Cells.

You can be sure of this, nature has no substitute for red blood cells. Pimple-poison can drive the red rivers of your blood as long as there are enough red blood cells in it. More red-blood-cells!

That is what you need when you see pimple-drooping at you in the mirror. Black-headed pimples are worse! Pimples are worse! You can try everything under the sun and find only one answer, more red-blood in your blood! The tremendous results, produced by an increase in red blood cells is one of the S. S. S.'s of medical science. Red-cell men clear pure rich blood. They mean clear, radiant, lovable complexions. They mean no more pimple-drooping. They mean no more red blood. They mean freedom forever from pimples from the blackhead spot, from boils, from eczema and skin eruptions, from rheumatism, from that tired, exhausted, run-down feeling. Red-blood-cells are the most important thing in the world to each of us. S. S. S. will build them for you. S. S. U. S. BEGINS PROBE OF COAL TRADE

Experts Delve Into Ohio and Pennsylvania Situation

WILL FINISH IN WEEK

Trips to All Mining Centers Are Planned

PITTSBURGH — (Associated Press) — A survey of the coal industry in Western Pennsylvania and Ohio with particular reference to the causes of labor irritation and strikes was commenced today by a group of experts named by the United States coal commission.

Individual members of the group planned to make trips to coal centers in the Pittsburgh district and all information collected will be incorporated into a group report. It was expected that a week would be required to complete the work.

The survey was being made by Dr. John S. Keir, head of the department of industrial economic of Carnegie Institute of Technology, Dr. William Lebeckson, a professor at Toledo University, Toledo, Ohio, and John M. Carmody, merchandise manager of the Fritz Bruderman Company of Cleveland.

This group, it was stated, is one of seven named to make a survey in the following districts: Anthracite fields of Pennsylvania, Kentucky and Tennessee; West Virginia region, Illinois and Indiana and of Kansas, Oklahoma and Colorado. The investigation will be conducted entirely in the coal industry but all economic and industrial interests affected by labor irritations and strikes will be approached for information, Mr. Carmody announced.

PROSECUTION EVIDENCE ATTACKED IN RUM CASE

INDIANAPOLIS — But by hit, attorneys for Mayor Roosevelt Johnson and other defendants in the Gary Liquor conspiracy bill, sought today to pick apart evidence presented by the government and refute it in detail. Questioning of Nathan Potts, a police sergeant listed among the defendants, was interrupted by Judge F. A. Gieger. The court obtained an admission from the witness that part of the government's strongest evidence was true. Potts confessed that defendant officials attacked Phillip Uzman, star government witness and threatened him with death.

ALL BATTLERS ARE READY FOR BIG FIGHT HERE

4 BOUTS ON CARD TONIGHT

BY FRANKLIN DOAN

An old grudge which has been hot and keen since last August will be settled at Memorial Hall Friday evening when Jake Gross will step into the padded arena ready to put up the battle of his life, with his bitter rival, Willie Ames of Akron.

Three times the lads have met and altho Ames has won two of the encounters, Gross gave him more than he had ever expected to receive. The first time that they met Ames fouled Gross toward the middle of the second round, Gross receiving the decision. On their next meeting Gross was shaded by the Akron flash.

Upon their third meeting things were of the best. The fight was staged in Massillon, where the fight was held. In the second round Gross connected with Ames' jaw and the impact broke Gross' right hand.

The injury to Gross has kept him out of the ring for the last four months but he is in the best possible shape at this time. Jake has been traveling twelve fast rounds with his sparring partners every evening for the last two weeks and both of the old choppers' sticks are ready to push some punishment into Ames' midriff and jaw.

Ames himself has been making preparations for the encounter. The Akron boy breezed into town yesterday afternoon looking fit for the battle. He is confident that Gross will have a taste of rain before the going is sounded at the end of the battle.

The Gross-Ames set is but one of the last fights arranged for the evening and fans will see some of the best pugilists ever staged in Lima. Besides the twelve rounds which will be taken up by the main event there will be twenty other innings of pure and unadulterated fighting.

Red Young, Earl Smith's crimson thatched welterweight will figure in the semi-final with Hammering Howie, formerly of Providence R.I. but now of Lima.

These boys were matched in the last card and gave fans one of the best exhibitions of the year. The judges decided that the battle was even and after the boys have been willing to settle the dispute.

Both are in the prime of condition and ready for the fray. Young has been training with Gross and according to reports he has developed considerable speed. Howie has been working hard for the past two weeks and has won every battle since meeting with Young over a month ago and declares that his winning streak will not be broken.

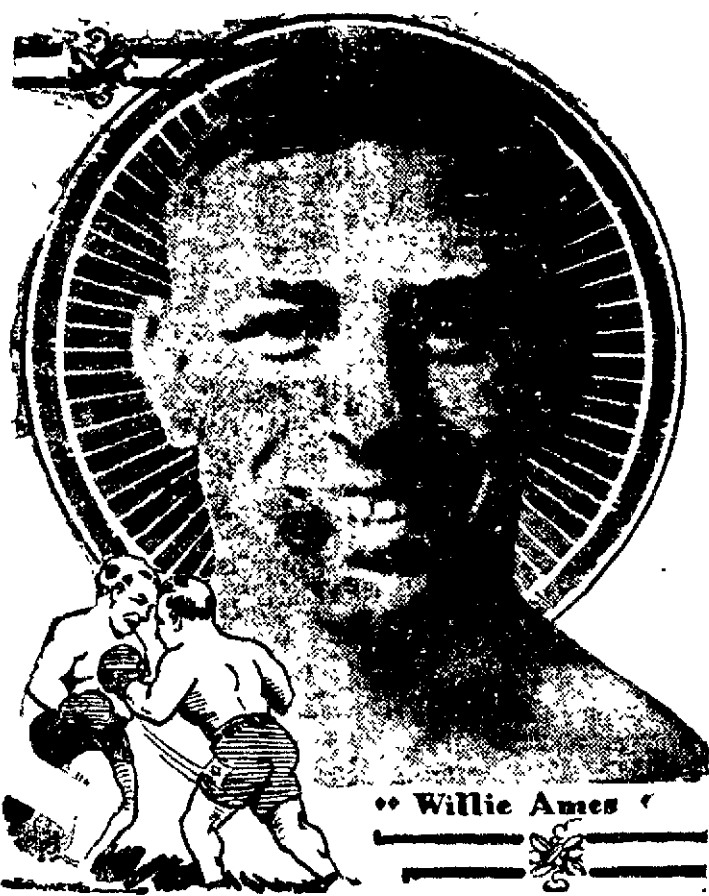

Tommy Warren, the big Lima boy that has set Lima sport lovers agog with his punching ability will be in the semi-finals with Tommy Hanks, another opposing him. Both are heavyweights and carry a punch that means stars when it lands.

IN GOOD CONDITION
The Lima boy has been battling since late and is in the prime of pink of condition. He has tonight an exhibition with Jess Willard at Ft. Wayne not so long ago and declared much more knowledge from it which he will put to work in his fight this evening. The Ft. Wayne boy is ready for the going and avers that Warren will hear a select canny solo if one of his haymakers hit its mark.

In the curtain raiser Young Harry Cobb and Young Farris, both Lima boys will have an argument. Both have fought in Lima before but never against each other and they impressed the fans with their tearing in style of fighting. The fans should see a great battle when these two youngsters step into the ring.

With this excellent bill ready for the delectation of the fans the promoters, the Lima Gym Club, believe that everyone will go away satisfied with every detail. All the battlers are on hand and ready to go and no substitutions will have to be made. This will probably be the last indoor fight of the current fight season.

HE MEETS GROSS

Willie Ames

Willie Ames, Akron flash, is confident he will vanquish Jake Gross. Lima lad, in their 12 round fracas tonight. Jake is equally confident he will be able to do what Ames hopes to do.

TRAINING CAMP NEWS NOTES

SEGUIN, Tex. — With Eddie Collins, king of second basemen, and Willie Kamm, the $100,000 third baseman, in the lineup for the first time this year, the Chicago White Sox were ready for the renewal of their spring series with the New York Giants at San Antonio today.

LOS ANGELES — The Chicago Cubs arrived here today for a series of three games, two with Vernon and tomorrow and one with the Los Angeles Sunday. The Cubs will not return to their spring base on Catalina Island, but will continue their tour along the Pacific coast and east, arriving in Chicago in time for the opening of the National League.

AUGUSTA, Ga. — Ty Cobb's Detroit Tigers won their first pre-season game yesterday, defeating Augusta 6 to 5. Cobb used many reports after he permitted the local fans to get a glimpse at some of the high priced regulars.

LAKELAND, Fla. — The Cleveland Indians schedule calls for a skirmish with the Dodgers today. The third game with the Reds was Red 4, Indians 3. Louis Gusto, Indian first sacker, clouted a homer, driving in Wumbo ahead of him. The umpire called him out, saying he had missed touching first by an inch.

LEESBURG, Fla. — Art Fletcher, new manager of the Phillies, is having trouble getting his pitchers into shape and today he ordered them to "show their stuff." The regulars trounced the yanigans again yesterday 8 to 0.

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — The Athletics journeyed to Prattville today to play two games with picked teams. Connie Mack was far from happy after his rejuvenated team was laid low by the Milwaukee Brewers yesterday 11 to 6.

HOT SPRINGS — Russell and Tierney knocked homers and Enstole home as the regulars defeated the yanigans in the first Pirate practice game of the year. Scores 5 to 4.

RECEIVER NAMED
CLEVELAND — Oscar J. Horn, Cleveland attorney, named receiver for Continental Grocery Stores, Inc.

New Leaders In Tournament

MILWAUKEE, Wis. — New American Bowling Congress tournament leaders appeared today in the doubles and in third, fourth and fifth places in the singles. F. Kolacke and J. Jacobs of Milwaukee occupied most of the limelight yesterday when they replaced P. Summers and E. Mueller, also of Milwaukee, as leaders in the doubles by totaling 1,235. Leaders in the five man events were not disturbed.

The standing of the leaders. Five man teams — Take in, unchanged from yesterday.

DOUBLES:
F. Kolacke-J. Jacobs, Milwaukee, 1,235. E. Mueller-F. Summers, Milwaukee, 1,273. J. Pratt-W. MacDougall, Detroit, 1,251. J. Freer-E. Zafas, Chicago, 1,250. L. Boins-O. Berkley, Eau Claire, Wis., 1,250.

SINGLES:
P. Schario, Canton, Ohio, 695. Elmer Lee, Milwaukee, 694. W. Kumbastak, Grand Rapids, 688. B. Damman, New York, 685. F. Kolacke, Milwaukee, 675.

ALL EVENTS:
L. Dunn, Chicago, 1,932. F. Kowber, Dubuque, Iowa, 1,929. W. Kumbastak, Grand Rapids, 1,912. A. Atkinson, Milwaukee, 1,897. W. Dorsch, Chicago, 1,877.

FIGHT ARRANGED

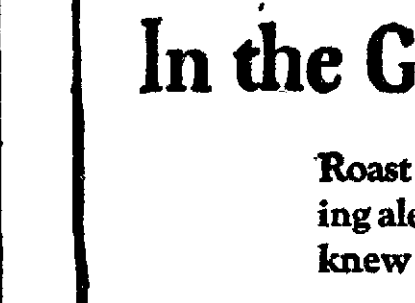

DUBLIN — Mike McTigue said late last evening that he had accepted an offer to fight Georges Carpentier but that it had not been decided whether the match would be staged in the United States or in Ireland.

LEESBURG, Fla. — Art Fletcher, new manager of the Phillies, is having trouble getting his pitchers into shape and today he ordered them to "show their stuff." The regulars trounced the yanigans again yesterday 8 to 0.

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — The Athletics journeyed to Prattville today to play two games with picked teams. Connie Mack was far from happy after his rejuvenated team was laid low by the Milwaukee Brewers yesterday 11 to 6.

SOPHS CHAMPS AT CENTRAL

Once more the Sophomore class of Central High school showed their superiority when they triumphed over the three other classes and were declared class basketball champions by O. J. Detrick, manager of the tournament.

The Sophomores were principals in an unique case in winning the title. In the final game they were divided against themselves. The second team defeated their first team friends by a 12-8 score thus annexing the title.

In the semi-finals the Freshmen fell before the Sophomore first or "A" team and the Seniors succumbed to the Sophomore "B" by a 7-6 score. This game was hot and fast throughout and it was in doubt until the last minute when Alexander shipped the ball thru a different angle.

The two Sophomores teams came together in the last match and the first team was forced to fall before their "subs." This too, was a snappy game and the final decision was in doubt until the last few minutes.

Lineup and summary:

Sophomores A Sophomores B:
Hughes RF Boose
Brannovitch LF Churchill
Henderson CF Crawford
Kirk C Vingling
Roundtrio LG Alexander
Field goals—Hughes, Roundtrio, Boose, Crawford 2, Alexander 2.
Foul goals—Boose 2, Brannovitch 2.

Their last fight was a draw.

YOUNG'S OPPONENT

Hammering Howie will meet Red Young in the semi final of Memorial Hall tonight.

These boys fought a fast battle on the last card and are in fine condition for their scrap tonight. Howie has trained diligently and Young has spent more time in preparation for this match than ever before. He has developed speed and endurance and is confident he will come out victor.

CAPTAINS FOR SOUTH NAMED

Calvin Early, a Junior in South High was named to captain the basketball team of that institution, at the annual banquet given by faculty at the Lima House last night honoring athletes of the past year. Early also plays end on the football team.

At the same time Robert Barrington was chosen to lead the grid cohorts of the school. Barrington will graduate next year. Early is the successor of Erin Evans and Barrington succeeds Vernon Winegardner.

Robert Berger was presented with his seventh letter for athletics. He was also the recipient of a beautiful gold chain emblem of being a great athlete at the Southside school of learning. Berger has made three basketball and football letters and a track initial. He was captain of the football team in 1921.

Couch Burdette presented his honor letters to men who have stood out in South athletics. Those who received the honorary letters were Early, Barrington, Berger, Winegardner, Evans and Williams.

TOURNEY ON

YOUNGSTOWN — With Youngs town and the army team from Fort Monroe, Va., eliminated from the International Y. M. C. A. basketball tournament, four teams were to play this afternoon to see which pair would meet Toronto and Detroit winners of last night's games.

Cincinnati will meet Sanbury today and the Springfield, Mass. team, a favorite in the tourney, will play Port J. Ky. The winners will meet Toronto and Detroit tomorrow.

The scores in last night's opening round were: Detroit 37; Youngstown 29. Toronto 18; Fort Monroe 30.

MOLLA IMPROVES

PARIS — As Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory's vacation draws to an end she is beginning to find her tennis eye, says the Herald's Cannes correspondent. The American champion, who defeated Miss Kathleen Mackinnon in a hard fought match yesterday, meets Mrs. Beamish today. The correspondent asserts that the tournament is likely to end in a final round match between Mrs. Mallory and Miss Elizabeth Ryan.

YANKEE MANNERS CALLED WORST

Americans Cough in Your Face Says Noted Novelist

GRAB ONLY SEAT IN CAR

Declares Commoriness is the National Vice

(BY JOSEPHINE DE GRIFT)
NEW YORK — (Special) — Americans have the worst manners in the world. They cough in your face, they chew gum in public, they push, they jostle, they fight for the only vacant seat in a street car, they shove you away from the ticket office, they nearly knock you down and never raise their hats.

So says Gertrude Atherton, noted woman novelist.
"I have traveled all over Europe and America," she explains, "and take my word for it, Americans have the worst manners in the world. They have no regard for no public. They personally the Declaration of Independence gone wild."
"Men come to dinner in their shirt sleeves and women cut each other in public. College students ignore the faculty and young men refuse to dance with their hostesses. The steel magnate outrages the feeling of the office boy and the office boy passes on the insult."

"The man who has spanned a cen-tenant with railroads grasps his fork down by the prongs and the young postess with a volume of free verse on the press embarrasses counters. 'Aw, where d'ya get that line' when someone hands her a compliment.

CAUSE OF DIVORCE
"Commoriness is the national vice. It causes more heartaches than drunkenness, dope and bigamy combined. It is the cause of frequently overlooked, which leads in the merry race to the divorce court."

"A woman who would look with tolerance upon occasional lapses from morality can be driven to desperation because her husband habitually leaves his spoon in his coffee cup."

"A man may be a good provider and a pillar in the church but what woman is going to regard him with tolerance when he talks to her with his hat on and blows smoke in her face?"

"Many a man of refinement has thought longingly of oblivion when he perceived his wife taking soup from the end of the spoon and many a good woman's love has been killed because her husband couldn't learn to stand up when his mother-in-law came into the room."
"The cure? I'd make training in manners compulsory for every school child. I'd have little boys taught when to remove their hats and little girls how to say thank you. And I'd have both girls and boys taught to respect their elders."

BRANCH BANKING UPHELD
CINCINNATI — Debating team of Cleveland Chapter, American Institute of Banking, was victorious Thursday night over the Cincinnati team, in discussion of the topic: "Resolved, that branch banking in the United States should be encouraged." Cleveland debaters, supporting the affirmative, contended that branch banking had proved successful in Cincinnati, Cleveland, Detroit and New York, because of service, convenience and safety afforded the public.

CALORIES

Emphasis used to be focused solely upon the caloric value of foods. Now, it is known that vitamins are equally essential to adequate nourishment.

Scott's Emulsion

has particular value as an energy-building food and tonic. It is also rich in vitamins, so important in building up the body and promoting healthful progress.

Man Postpones His Funeral

"I am 66 years old and for past two years have been suffering so badly from stomach and liver troubles, bloating and colic attacks that I did not expect to live more than a few months and was arranging my affairs and even my funeral. Then I took Dr. Scholl's Zino-pads. It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded."

HEART ATTACK KILLS MAN WITH BROKEN NECK

DAYTON — Alonzo Soudin, 63, known throat country as "The Man With the Broken Neck," was dead here today as a result of a heart attack while sitting in a restaurant.

Soudin had been suffering with a broken neck for more than 16 years but an investigation by the coroner shows that did not enter into the death.

His neck, broken in an accident at the National Cash Register plant October 23, 1906, Soudin has been touring the country selling pictures of himself. He had built a home and educated his son.

Lima Man Says Plant Juice is Finest Remedy He Ever Took in His Life

CAN'T PRAISE IT TOO MUCH

"Your Plant Juice is the finest medicine I ever took in my life. It has improved me 100 per cent and I am glad to recommend it," said Mr. James Gamble, of 310 East Elm Street, Lima, while talking with the Plant Juice Man recently.

MR. JAMES GAMBLE

"Several weeks ago I contracted a severe cold and it seemed to settle over my whole body. My chest was so sore and I had pains in my back and such terrible pains in my knees that I could hardly get up or down. I had no appetite; was so nervous I couldn't sleep and was all run down and very weak. 'Some of my neighbors told me about your Plant Juice medicine and asked me to try it and I did so and am now glad now for it has improved me 100 per cent. The soreness has left my chest and the pains are nearly all gone from my back and knees so that I can get up or down without effort. My food tastes good and my nerves are getting steadier every day so that I sleep fine.'"

It seemed that your Plant Juice went right to the bottom of my trouble at once and I can't say enough for it and gladly recommend it to the public.
During the past few months, this herbal medicine, Plant Juice, has produced surprising results in several thousand cases in Lima and vicinity. People say Plant Juice seems to act like magic in cases of stomach, liver and kidney troubles. The Plant Juice Man is at Hunter's drug store, 49 Public Square, Lima, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Free samples given.
Plant Juice is sold in Lima at Hunter's drug store at Main and Wayne streets and at the Argonne drug store, opposite Post Office—adv.
